Table 5-2.	PBX Switching Systems Sorted By Manufacturer . . . . .	19

1. Purpose

This Practice defines the COMMON LANGUAGE standard code representation for station switching systems. Listed are codes for different types of PBX, Centrex and Special Service Switching Systems now in service.

2. Scope

This Practice applies primarily to organizations with the following responsibilities:

- Distribution Service
- Switching Operations.

The codes are particularly applicable, but not limited, to the following functions:

- Distribution Service Facility Assignment
- Investment and Inventory Management
- Distribution Services Engineering
- Distribution Equipment Purchasing
- Central Office Engineering
- Service Order Assignment.

Unless specified as being COMMON LANGUAGE data, do not combine COMMON LANGUAGE station switching systems representation with other coded representations, or with each other. Only combinations or sequences specified in this, or other COMMON LANGUAGE practices, are standard.

3. General

Questions concerning this Practice should be addressed to the author identified in the Copyright Page (Pg 2.) and directed to the Customer Support Center via e-mail at csc@commonlanguage.com or by fax to 732-336-2778.

4. Reason for Issue

This Practice is being re-issued as a general update to reflect additional switching system codes assigned since the last issue. Tables A,B,C,D & E have been consolidated into two tables; 5.1 PBX Switching Systems sorted by code and 5.2 PBX Switching Systems sorted by manufacturer.

5. Switching System Codes - PBX, Centrex and Special Service

Station switching systems are usually located on the premises of the customer, and have the following facilities for interconnecting the telephone stations they serve:

- Central Office Trunk Connection
- Branch Exchange Trunk Connection
- Switched Service Network Connection.

The Switching Systems Private Branch Exchange (PBX), Centrex and Special Service COMMON LANGUAGE codes are one- to four-character alphanumeric-mnemonic codes. These codes uniquely identify all types of PBX, Centrex and Special Service Switching Systems available at a subscriber's location. Codes 2NB and 4NB in Table A identify two- and four-wire systems when none of the other codes for PBX switching systems are applicable.
